

Thank you for considering Leonards Mill for your overnight stay.

Leonards Mill was originally built in 1858 as a flour Mill. When the wheat industry dried up on the Fleurieu Peninsula the mill was reincarnated as a Wattlebark Mill for tanning leather in London. The 2 semi-detached cottages are believed to once have been the dairy and workshop and built in the same era as the Mill.

The cottage rooms are cosy and comfortable, consisting of a queen-sized bed, sofa, table and small bar fridge. They contain an en-suite with shower, hand basin, hair dryer and toilet. Please be aware that we seldom get tv reception!

Breakfast is provided for 2 adults and placed in the room the night before. Consisting of but not limited to, pastry, bread, fresh fruit, muesli, juice, milk, tea and coffee.
